Barcın Höyük is a small mound near Yenişehir (Bursa province), where excavations by the Netherlands Institute in Turkey have taken place since 2005. The initial research goal of investigating a prehistoric settlement has been widened in 2007 and 2008 to include the exploration of a cemetery dating to the (Middle) Byzantine period. For the 2009 season a test trench is planned to locate the rural settlement to which the cemetery belonged. The Byzantine-period part of the Barcın Höyük Project is headed by Dr. Anestis Vasilakeris of Boğaziçi University, Istanbul.

The Avkat Archaeological Survey is a diachronic survey of the region surrounding the modern village of Beyözü (also known as Avkat, and identified as ancient Euchaita,) and seeks to understand the long-term changes in landscape use and socio-economic structures found in a rural Anatolian hinterland. The project seeks to integrate traditional archaeological survey work with other disciplines into a 100% digital project incorporating large datasets both of a traditional archaeological nature, as well as non-archaeological such as large volumes of text, climatic and palynological data, and vegetational and geological classifications derived from multispectral satellite imagery. It creates a web-accessible site with full access to datasets for a broad range of constituencies: www.princeton.edu/avkat.

The International Medieval Logistics Project is run jointly between Princeton and Birmingham/UK. This project uses Grid-aware distributed simulation techniques to model movement and sustainability of historic armies as well as to synthesise data for pre-modern landscapes and land-use. The study involves multiple simulations of transient populations (armies) moving within a digital environmental database. Alongside primary and secondary source material, the data will be used to interpret events related to warfare and resource distribution and consumption and to act as a control on the historical sources. See J. F. Haldon, ed., General issues in the study of medieval logistics: sources, problems and methodologies (Leiden 2006); www.medievallogistics.bham.ac.uk.

The Digital Manzikert Project brings together historians, archaeologists and computer scientists to model the logistical arrangements relating to the campaign resulting in the battle of Manzikert (AD 1071). Given the significance attributed to these events and, ultimately, the collapse of Byzantine power regionally, the lack of consensus between historians on a range of key issues concerning manpower and resources, and the route taken by the Byzantine army to Manzikert, is profound. The project involves a fundamental re-analysis of the Manzikert campaign and will illustrate the use of Grid-aware distributed simulation techniques to model movement and sustainability of historic armies. A workshop presenting the progress achieved so far will take place on 27th-28th April 2010 at Princeton:

The Hagia Sophia project, co-directed by Ken Dark (University of Reading, UK) and Jan Kostenec (Czech Centre for Mediterranean Archaeology), aims at studying the church of Hagia Sophia as a cathedral complex. As such, this archaeological project aims to investigate not only on the impressive - and, of course, already extensively studied - church structure, but also the associated Byzantine buildings that once stood around it (e.g. Patriarchate, Great Baptistery). A summary of the results of our work undertaken between 2004 and 2009 has been published in Bulletin of British Byzantine Studies 35 and 36.

The project studies movement through two city gates in late antique Rome: the Porta Esquilina in the Republican Wall and the Porta Tiburtina in the Aurelian Wall, linked by the road Via Tiburtina. The project also comprises the Porta Romana in Ostia as a comparison. The importance of the gates and the city walls for the urban development will be investigated by applying a diachronic perspective in the period 200-600 CE. The project aims to focus on the physical and symbolic character of the gate area, and its commercial activity and social interaction.

St. Benoit in Galata. Der byzantinische Ursprungsbau

Olovdotter, C.

The project Virtue, status, glory, immortality: on the applications and meanings of architectural motifs in the figural arts of the Late Roman and Early Byzantine era (c. 200-600) aims at shedding some long due light on a motif category that appears almost programmatically in the figural arts of late antiquity: the architectural figure-frame. Although motifs such as the arch, portal, columnar niche, aedicule, serliana, and fastigium are present in art throughout antiquity, they become visually prominent, even defining, features of innumerable commemorative and religious (polytheistic and Christian) monuments and artworks in the Late Roman and Early Byzantine period. Through systematic and structural analyses of the application patterns and contextually related significances of architectural motifs in late antique art, the study seeks to reveal the mechanisms and purposes – aesthetic, historical, religious, social – behind their intensified use, and in the extension behind the symbolisation of art in general, at the end of antiquity.

Kucukyali ArkeoPark Project, 2010

This year's archaeological operations focus on the monastic platform where we are revealing and completing excavation of the monastic tower; clearing of the katholikon dedicated to St. Michael is due to start on the third week of July. Outside the monastic platform, to the north of the complex and further removal of an illegally built road, excavations are bringing to light the monastery's built environment outside its core.

A team from the Milano Politecnico University plans to begin a conservation program of the newly revealed architectures as well as the cistern's walls in the Fall. A landscaping project for the excavated areas will be designed by a team of Turkish specialists.

Küçükyalı ArkeoPark Project, in partnership with Istanbul Archaeological Museums and Koç University and with the sponsorship of the Istanbul 2010 European Capital of Culture Agency, Municipality of Maltepe and Fiat-Tofaş, invites visitors to the archaeological site at Küçükyalı. As we have been continuing our third year of excavations on the remains of the 9th century patriarchal monastery of Satyros, between 12th of July and 10th of August 2010 we welcome visitors expect visitors to come and share this experience with us.

Survey in Zenonopolis in Isauria

The survey which has started in August 2008 aims primarily at the architectural documentation of the early Byzantine church on the plateau (yayla) of Zenonopolis/Büyükkarapınar (Karaman) and of other remains. The building on the yayla, which can be attributed to St. Socrates considering a 5th C. inscription found on the site, remained unknown to research so far. The ancient site – the birthplace of emperor Zeno – is occupied by the modern village below where the necropolis with rock cut sarcophagi is still to be seen and a series of architectural fragments can be identified as reused in the masonry of houses.

Das Projekt "Constantinopolis. Topographische, baugeschichtliche und wirtschaftsgeschichtliche Untersuchungen zu den italienischen Niederlassungen in Konstantinopel vor 1204", das seit 2005 von der Henkelstiftung unterstützt wird, soll nun im Zusammenwirken mit dem DAI (das schon in einer frühen Phase Träger des Projekts war) zu Ende geführt werden. Die Darstellung beruht in erster Linie auf einer Edition, Übersetzung und Kommentierung der lateinischen und griechischen Dokumente in den Staatsarchiven Pisa und Genua, sowie zu einem geringen Teil in Venedig, begleitet von Survey-Forschungen in Istanbul, die nun dank einer elektronischen Kartographierung der Stadt sehr erleichtert werden. Der Bearbeiter glaubt mit großer Sicherheit annehmen zu können, daß der den Genuesen geschenkte, einst der Botaneiates-Familie gehörende Palast identisch ist mit den byzantinischen Substruktionen im Acimusluk sokagi (Müller-Wiener, Bildlexikon S. 541). Weitere Untersuchungen dieses u.a. schon von K.Wulzinger im Jahrbuch des Deutschen Archäol. Instituts 1913 aufgenommenen Baues und neue photographische Aufnahmen der Innenräume sollen im Jahr 2008 erfolgen. Sondagen sind wegen der völligen modernen Überbauung des Areals unmöglich, doch soll Einsicht genommen werden in die Unterlagen der Denkmalbehörden zum Zeitpunkt dieser Baumaßnahmen. Eine Publikation aller Ergebnisse erfolgt in einem der Teilbände der Tabula Imperii Byzantini im Rahmen der Denkschriften der Österr. Akademie der Wissenschaften.

Since 1998 excavation and study of the building history of the late antique Urban Mansion at Sagalassos (Ağlasun, Burdur), within the framework of the Sagalassos Archaeological Research Project (director: M. Waelkens, Katholieke Universiteit Leuven – Belgium). The main building phase of the large elite residence under investigation goes back to the late 4th-early 5th c. AD, during which pre-existing domestic structures in the area (e.g. a 1st c. AD peristyle dwelling and 2nd c. AD private bath spaces) were incorporated in a new complex. After the 5th c. AD the building underwent several transformations, including the subdivision and the functional change of spaces. After an heavy earthquake that struck Sagalassos in the late 6th-early 7th c. AD, new occupation levels were created, until the building was finally abandoned around the Mid 7th c. AD.
